

ABSTRACT

[0113] The present invention concerns a detector arrangement that is adapted to measure radiation from detector areas in the surface of a microfluidic device. The arrangement comprises a detector unit with a detector head and other units enabling for the detector unit to collect radiation from the detection areas.

201710.05229001